

My computer has been receiving unwanted advertising from a company called MidADdle (www.midaddle.com). Although the company claims that the advertising can be removed, it indeed cannot. I am filing a complaint because this unwanted advertising is being imposed on me, wasting my time and internet bandwidth. I have attempted to contact the company several times with little or no success. Midaddle basically installs a small "trojan Horse" on users computers which records everything you do on the web. When you type in a web address that matches their sponsors key words, it redirects you to an www.ads234.com website which displays an advertisement. This is a clear violation of privacy laws. Thank you in advance for your assistance! Most sincerely, -Adam Naim
